The Stance of the Mujahidin on the American-Iranian Conflict

Once again, the voices of the American tawaghit cry outloud as well as the threatening of the Rafidi government of Iran. The American military continues to gather warships and aircraft carriers in the Gulf waters, while the list of goods that are prohibited to trade with Iran grows bigger and the movements of money inside and outside Iran is getting more restricted, as part of the procedures to put pressure of the taghut Khamenei in order to submit to the American demands.

The taghut Trump announced since the days he ran for President of the United States, that one of his future projects is to regain the big and effective American presence in the oil-rich region, which ebbed to a large degree after the withdrawal of the American military from Iraq due to the exhausting war with the mujahidin. This matter can not be achieved without competing with Iran to fill the void, into which it placed its Revolutionary Guard and the Rafidi gangs attached to it. Likewise, the Iranian expansion in Sham, its controlling wide areas in Yemen, and its expansion in long-range missile armaments, in terms of range and accuracy, all these reasons annoyed the so-called state of the Jews, and the tawaghit of the Peninsula of Muhammad (PBUH), to an extent that America was forced to intensify its efforts to put pressure on Iran to limit the expansion of its influence in the region and to comfort its allies one way or another. This will help America to increase its presence in the region, strengthen its influence and allow it to increase the amounts of money collected from the Gulf states, which will happily spend more due to the previously mentioned fears.

On the other hand, the Iranian oil allures the American taghut to demand a share of it to be taken by the American oil companies that were prohibited from functioning in Iran for decades, especially under the current financial crises America suffers from, which the payments from the Gulf tawaghit can only cover limited parts of it.

Therefore, the recent American actions in both Iran and Venezuela came as part of a global blackmailing operation to double the income of the American treasury, similar to other pressure efforts, to reduce government spending and burdens on companies, by limiting the financing of the UN and NATO, the withdrawal from Paris Agreement about the climate change, which was signed by Obama, and the trade conflict with China.

The conflict between the Iranian mushrikin and the United States is old, and Iran took advantage of the American conflict with the mujahidin, especially with the persistence of the emirs of al-Qaida on the theory of the "one enemy", in which they limit the fight against America and the systems close to it. Also, Iran blackmailed al-Qaida through the existence of al-Qaida members and families on its land who were captured after the American invasion of Khurasan. This matter was employed by Iran to expand its control over Iraq and Afghanistan, in a way to leave the burden of fighting America and expel it out of the land on the shoulders of the Sunnis, while the Rafidi mushrikin rule the lands left by the American army, due to the severe tiredness of the mujahidin after the massive war with America.

However, Allah has guided the mujahidin of Iraq to discover this evil planning earlier, so they started, and since the early days of their jihad, to target whatever they could of the points of Iranian strength in Iraq, especially the Rafidi gangs that follow it. They made that among their most important goals and shut their ears closed against all the recommendations and objections from the emirs of al-Qaida and bad 'ulama close to them, who demanded them to stop fighting the Rafida in the pretext of limiting the fight to the Crusaders, which in reality was the hope of some of them to save their failed theory and to respond to the Iranian pressure on them through their prisoners there, or maybe because of the pressure put by their commanders in the Taliban who began to improve their relationship with Iran.

It could be hard for us today to imagine the escalation of the conflict between the mushrikin of America and Iran into a destructive war, for the United States and its allies are weak to think of a conventional destructive war, and Iran has a lot of bargaining cards that can use during the negotiations process to avoid developments to destructive results. Everything is heading towards the improvement of each side in their negotiating stance, instead of those sides increasing their fighting readiness.

The time has passed in which the mujahidin look at the sides of the conflict among the mushrikin of earth to find their place with one side or the other, believing that one is more hateful to Islam and Muslims and therefore, they waste their lives fighting the other side and have the fruits of their jihad harvested by someone else, like what happened previously in many fronts like Bosnia, Afghanistan and others.

The same way that the attacks of the Islamic State mujahidin against America and its allies will not stop, by Allah's permission, until Allah judges between us, our attacks will not stop against the Rafida everywhere, headed by the tawaghit of Iran and their followers, until, by Allah's permission, we remove their authority on earth and stop their shirk in Allah. We ask Allah to make the fighting of the mushrikin among themselves as a victory to His believer slaves and humiliation to the entire nations of kufr, and all praise is due to Allah, Lord of all creation.
